9/18/02-- An important economic heads-up, well in advance-- Based on a great deal of research into 100+ years of economic patterns, I am predicting an economic bottom July 2004- January 2005 due to a Universal Saturn transit. Universal transits affect us all- our recent optimistic and expansive Universal Jupiter transit supported our economy through the end of 2001, and the current beneficial Universal Neptune transit still keeps business somewhat strong and consumer spending reasonably high through 8/10/03, when the bubble bursts. Then when the Universal Saturn transit begins in July of '04, expect consumer confidence to plummet, pessimism to reign, and businesses to retrench significantly. Obviously, this would be a horrible time frame to start a new job or business, launch a new product, or even get married. Firm up your financial foundations, get out of debt, stuff your mattress with $$$$ now while things are still OK, and you'll be able to take advantage of the rock-bottom buyer's market in stocks and real estate in early '05. I know that this is a very serious prediction, so please know that I've done my homework and I don't make this prediction lightly.

Due to your excellent response, I continue with monthly predictions for each Zodiac Sign. As in all predictive columns, this is written based on the Solar House system. If you know your Ascendant (Rising Sign) read that section as well as your Sun Sign. For October 2002:

Aries: Significant relationships are what you are identifying most with right now, though you continue to burn the candle at both ends at work. If you're not committed, you're probably looking, and this can be a fun time to date. Siblings and neighbors are still demanding and not much fun. You continue to be drawn to unusual friends, who can be flaky. Be extra careful and practical in career decisions. Your attractiveness and charm shine this month.

Taurus: Working is a focus, but actual cash flow is still tight. Your thoughts are energetically turning to love, and if unattached, you're dating in a frenzy (by Taurean standards.) You may be thinking of expanding your home. Career is changing radically- let it take you in new directions. Power struggles may haunt you- don't be so stubborn you can't let go.

Gemini: The home front may be seething- try to keep things as calm as possible. Creativity is strong and work should feel good. Long-term changes in your work are gradually coming to an end, hopefully you've arrived at something that is really an appropriate expression of your talents. Money flow should still be good. It's time to learn something new and exciting, or to travel to expand your horizons. Despite the relatively good times, you may still feel depressed. Count your blessings & wait out this cycle.

Cancer: Disputes with neighbors and siblings may be troubling an otherwise happy home life. Watch your diet, it's hard to resist temptation, and the pounds may be creeping up. Relationships with children have been changing for some time, and may have been a constant battle for control- this should slowly begin to stabilize. Your long time of intense creativity may gradually wane. Strong ideals in relationships continue- make sure your expectations are realistic.

Leo: Your charm in communication is at an all-time high. Buckle up for continuing changes in one-to-one relationships- you are attracting or drawn to unusual people, and they behave unusually--and the changes may be sudden. Friends are still a bore, a bother, or are disappearing. Your assessment of work is off- try to see things clearly and don't be too proud to get a reality check from someone you trust. All the disruptions around home will slowly move toward settling down.

Virgo: Your temper is running high and you don't hesitate to express yourself. And could you be more busy??? Money flow should be good. Your work continues to change unpredictably and career feels burdensome. Friendships should feel good. Watch out for romantic illusions. Creativity should flow beautifully and effortlessly.

Libra: Lovely Libra has emerged from the shadows and is charming one and all. Money power is strong but sources may be changing. Process your anger constructively to avoid building up a backlog. Career should continue to expand. Learning and study is heavy and serious and travel is at a standstill. If single, dating continues to be erratic.

Scorpio: Career expansion should help make up for the continuing surprising changes at home. Transformative Scorpio always craves some change, but you don't enjoy it unless you're the instigator. As powerful as you are, you still don't push and pull the planets, so you may need to buckle up and relax. Getting proactive by making needed changes in your home yourself does make it easier. Your fascinating brand of charm returns full force this month, but beware of disputes with friends or groups with whom you associate.

Sagittarius: Close relationships remain demanding, while friendships and group associations take on new importance this month. You're making a powerful impact these days, and it's harder to get away with the Sagittarius foot-in-mouth disease. People are taking you very seriously and are more easily offended by your offhand and sometimes thoughtless "honesty." Some career disputes are possible. You may finally take that getaway you've been itching for.

Capricorn: You're shining in career right now, which is just how you like it-- but the workload is heavy even by your standards, and the money continues to be uneven. However, you could receive an unexpected windfall. Group associations and friendships continue to have their share of difficulties. Do look up from your eternal career focus to take this opportunity to expand your horizons through learning or travel.

Aquarius: You're continuing to let go of the appearances that were comfortable in the past- let yourself discover the face that you need to be wearing before the world now. Travel and study are highlighted, which you always enjoy. Your spirituality may be deepening or trying to break through- this is a good thing- even you can't live entirely in you mind, intellectual Aquarius. Career is intense and riddled with power struggles- take the high road so you don't create a potential backlash.

Pisces: Home is filled with limitations or overcontrol and close relationships are disputatious this month. Not only that, it's harder than usual to just exit stage right- you're feeling more like staying in the fray and slugging it out than is usual for you this month, and somehow your accustomed refuges aren't stable and dependable. Your career is in the process of transformation for some time, not only let it happen, but get active yourself in making the changes that need to be made.

I still want and appreciate your feedback on this new section--

Think of me when planning parties or special events in the Los Angeles and Ventura County areas this holiday season. Your Party or Special Event becomes truly memorable with fun and fascinating astrology readings! In a party or special event setting, individual or couples readings last 8-10 minutes. Readings are upbeat, humorous and fun- but also include important information to create take-home value for your guests. There's always a long line-- guests just love it!!

What is the importance of using astrology to choose an important date? The date we begin something creates the astrological chart for that thing. A strong chart with a strong relationship to your birthchart creates success-- a negative chart creates failure. What are some examples of special dates we should choose with care? In our personal life- a wedding date, dates to meet potential romantic partners, a date to consummate a relationship, a date to meet new in-laws, dates for elective surgery. In our economic life- dates to sign partnership agreements, dates to incorporate a business, dates to interview or start a new job, dates to sign mortgage or loan papers, trial or arbitration dates, dates to purchase domain names (the crucial factor in website success), dates to launch a product or creative material.

Reader Questions: My hubby's birth certificate doesn't have a time on it. He thinks he knows his correct time of birth but doesn't know whether it's am or pm. Mom and other older relatives that would have remembered this bit of info are all deceased. How much of a difference would this make in his chart? Is there a way to figure out which it is?

It's always helpful to have the exact time of birth from the birth certificate. Relying on anyone's memory is only a second choice. But for many of us, we just don't know the birth time. Birth time is only significant in geocentric longitudes- this gives us the ascendant (rising sign) by sign and degree, the exact position of the moon, and the house placement of the planets. If the only question is a.m. or p.m., it is easy for a trained astrologer to ask a few key questions and determine the probable answer. If the birth time is completely unknown, it can be determined through a fairly time-intensive process called rectification using dates of significant events in the client's life. Data given to us by birth time is very useful, but not crucial. Remember, geocentric longitudes are only one of the four dimensions used in Magi Astrology to tell us precisely what we want to know.

Noteworthy Magi Days: (Published by the Magi Society, these are days whose planetary patterns suggest strong general tendencies for one and all.) 9/18- 9/21- A very bad time for love and romance- tread carefully.
